I had a good chat with the Mayor, Steve K. And Police Chief today. Let's have a brief discussion tomorrow about By-Law's role in all of this. I have advised them that By-Law will not be enforcing tickets in dangerous situations and police agreed. Let's chat in the morning!

Mathieu,
I will paste what the OPS sent BIAs today. But we will look at what Bylaw, etc. are gathering and pull together some key messages/information by end of day tomorrow.
We can also ask that they add the coalition to the distribution list

Andrea

Good morning Community Partners,

As you are likely aware, a Truck Convoy is making its way to Ottawa this weekend. Our Special Events section is in contact with the organizers and is monitoring the progression of the convoy.

Although not all specific details are known, I wanted to advise you to expect significant traffic disruptions in the downtown core and the Byward Market. Appropriate police resources will de deployed to mitigate any safety risks and OPS is obviously working with other law enforcement partners.

Please follow @OttawaPolice and @Ottawa_Traffic on Twitter for any updates. I will also disseminate any information I receive to this distribution list.

Thank you for sharing this email widely within your agencies as well as with any other contact you feel can benefit from receiving this information.

Cordially,

The Coalition of BIAs has reached out to obtain messaging they can share with all their members regarding what they can except from the Freedom Convoy (traffic and business impacts, scope of demonstration(s)) and to manage expectations from the City's response. This would include how to react to maskless patrons, whether or not to call OPS or Bylaw; if and how we will be responding.

Have we already provided this to Bank Street and Byward? If it's good to go, please share and I'll provide it to Michelle Groulx, their ED. If it needs to be strengthened, please let me know ETA and I'll manage expectations with her.

Merci!
